

RIGHT OF BURIAL TRANSFER APPLICATION

Applies to all Armidale Regional Council cemeteries

When do you need to transfer ownership?

- When an application is made for burial in a grave but the Registered Owner is already deceased.
- When an application is made for a memorial or inscription on the grave, but the registered owner is deceased.
- When the Registered Owner has died, and a new owner would like to be registered.
- Where the Registered Owner wishes to transfer Right of Burial Ownership to another person.

Why do you need to transfer ownership?

- Current NSW Legislation entitles only the Registered Owner of the Right of Burial to:
- Direct who may be interred in their grave/crypt/vault etc. (This control is almost absolute and family members, apart from the registered owner and their spouse cannot be interred without written authority of the owner.
- Designate individual burial spaces to particular people Transfer their Right of Burial to another person
- Erect or alter a memorial or inscription
- Upon death of an owner, a legal transfer of ownership is necessary in order to transfer the Right of Burial to a living person(s).
- Upon receipt of the completed transfer form the register is updated with the new owner's details. It is important in the interest of the family to resolve ownership issues as soon as possible rather than wait until you need to arrange a funeral or memorial, as the process may take some time.

PLEASE NOTE: It is not possible to place a new memorial (even if the memorial relates to the previous registered owner), alter an existing memorial or open a grave for the interment of a deceased person without the written instruction and permission of the current owner.

Step by Step Guide of the transfer process

Where a Registered Owner (living) wishes to transfer ownership to a New Owner

- Complete the attached form – The form MUST be signed by both the Registered Owner and the New Owner
- Attach copies of identification for both the registered owner and the new owner
- Submit the completed form to Council for processing
- The cemetery register will be updated with the new owners' details and a letter of confirmation will be sent to the new owner.

Where a Registered Owner is deceased

Next of kin or other blood relatives do not necessarily inherit the rights of the Registered Owner of the Right of Burial. The Crown Lands Act determines that if the Registered Owner is deceased, the Right of Burial becomes part of the deceased's estate and may be left in a Will to the executor/beneficiary of the Registered Owner. Whoever inherits the rights will need to complete the application to transfer ownership.

If the deceased left a Will –

- Complete the attached form – The form MUST be signed by the new owner(s)
- Attach copies of identification for the new owner(s)
- Attach copy of the complete Will
- Return completed form along with the above documentation to the cemetery office
- The cemetery register will be updated with the new owners' details and a letter of confirmation will be sent to the new owner(s).

When there is no Will – Intestacy

If there is no will or the will is not valid and the estate requires the grant of letters of administration, the following documentation is required:

- Complete the attached form – The form MUST be signed by the new owner(s)
- Attach copies of identification for the new owner(s)
- Attach a copy of Letters of Administration – Copies of letters of administration can be obtained from the Probate Division, Laws Courts Building, Queens Square, 184 Phillip Street, SYDNEY NSW 2000 PH: (02) 9230 8133 or Postal address GPO BOX 3, SYDNEY NSW 2001.
- A letter from the Administrator(s) assigning the Right of Burial to the new owner(s)
- Return completed form along with the above documentation to the cemetery office
- The cemetery register will be updated with the new owners' details and a letter of confirmation will be sent to the new owner(s).

If the estate is of insufficient value to merit application for Letter for Letters of Administration, the Right of Burial will be assigned to beneficiaries in the manner determined by the Probate and Administration Act. Should this situation apply to you, please contact Council on 1300 t make an appointment to discuss the process of transfer.

PLEASE NOTE: The new owner does not take possession of the Right of Burial UNTIL all of the above requirements are met and the cemetery register is updated.
